Santa is on his way! Let's look back at November

I had a wonderful opportunity to join Clare Pollock and her long-time friends out on Fripp Island for their very first Paint and Sip. Clare is such a gracious hostess and was so welcoming and truly made me feel like part of her group. They were definitely a bright star at the end of an otherwise difficult day, week, month! Thank you, Clare. I really do love my customers and my job.

Elena was so tired this day, but she kept at it and did a fantastic job on her crushed glass snowflake! You're a superstar, my friend ✨

Darlene, Natalie, and Liza decided to spend some time together at Southern Palette instead of Black Friday shopping!

We had our first Paint and Sip at Bricks On Boundary, and it was a nice turnout! We have our next one planned for December 11th (details later in the newsletter). The staff was wonderful, apps were tasty, music was good, paintings came out great and everyone had a good time! Looking forward to the next one! I've gotta get me some Crack fries!

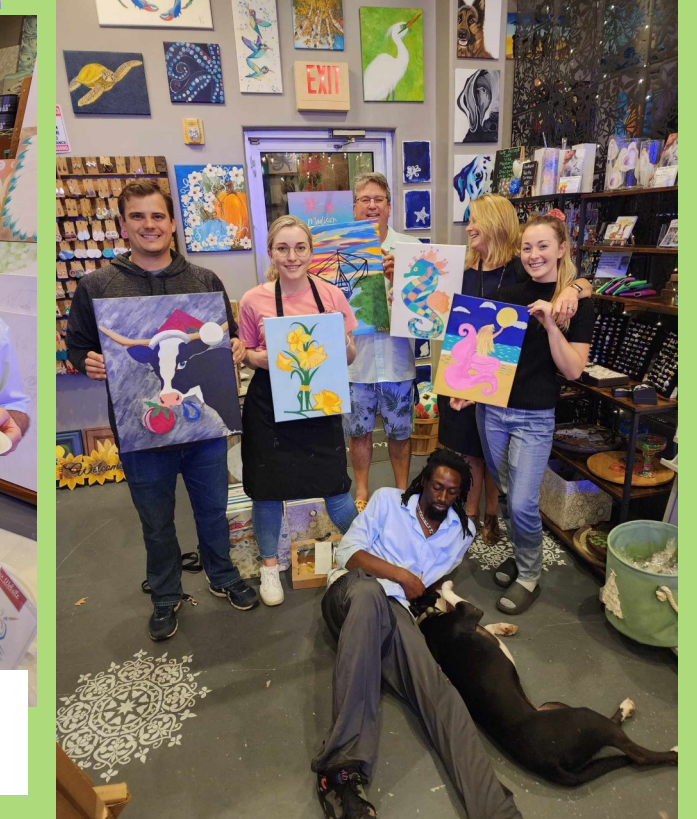

Jessica arranged a paint night for family and friends after she and I met after both realizing we were kind of "surgery sisters." We kept checking on each other, making sure each other was doing okay and not overdoing it (of course she was). It was so nice to actually meet in person after texting so much. She's a lovely person inside and out and has a lovely (and wild) family and group of friends! They're a handful!!! Love y'all girls. ❤️ ❤️ ❤️

This is Angel. She loves all aspects of art. She came in to paint a cross body bag with a sunflower on it! It was fun working with you, Angel.

Linda and Bethany were spending some mother and daughter time together, making charcuterie boards. We had a wonderful time visiting. I really enjoyed their company. Thanks for coming in, ladies.

Not so happy

My beloved Charger was totaled in an accident. There were no injuries, thankfully, but I am sad that my car is gone. I loved that car !

On the road with Kandace Joy

My friend Lori and I went to Bee City in Cottageville. It's a little over an hour away, but it's a nice drive and worth the visit. We got to pet kangaroos, which are very soft and have soft, fuzzy bellies, by the way. We also got to feed a variety of monkeys, which I assumed would have callused hands. But their hands felt just like baby's hands. We also went inside the parakeet aviary, and as you can see, the parakeets landed all over us. One even landed on my shoulder and played with my braid. I would have liked to see the animals have more space, and I think Bee City can do better by the animals, but it's definitely a good way to interact with animals. By the way, the picture I took of the tiger was not with a zoom. I've never been that close to a tiger in real life. Beautiful cat.

Wet Willie on November 30 and Why is this Newsletter Early?

The November 30 antics at Wet Willies will be featured in the January Newsletter because the IT guy is heading back to Melbourne, Australia to visit Family and Friends and is leaving on November 28 and will not be taking his computer!!
