I can still hear the fireworks....

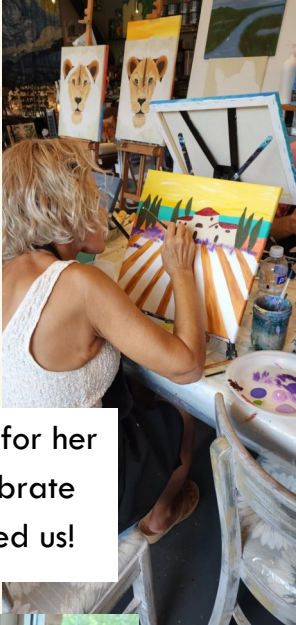

The Legette family had a family painting session with us!

Members of the Granade family paid us another visit! Always a fun time!

Melanie had a mommy and me paint time and a little snuggle on the sofa ❤️

Dee organized a get-together for her husband's birthday and to celebrate Christmas. Their pups even joined us!

Grace was visiting her grandmother and loves to paint. She is VERY good at such a young age.

JonJon was determined to paint Godzilla! I can see it, can't you? He did great!

A mini photo shoot while working on a couple of lions! The finished product in the following pages.

The Steeles returned again while on vacation at Harbor Island. It was wonderful working with y'all again!

Sisters, Jessica and Natarsha, spending time together for Jessica's birthday!

The education leaders from Meeting Street Jasper-Beaufort School met at Southern Palette Art to share ideas and needs. Ladies and Gents, this is a very smart group and they are very compassionate about the kids they serve! This is an up and coming charter school and sounds very promising!

Date Night! These two crazy kids finally had a date night, and they chose Southern Palette Art. It was fun working with them.

Wet Willie's was fun as always! We painted the Woods Memorial Bridge with two different times of day! Both paintings are full of content, but these artists rose to the challenge !

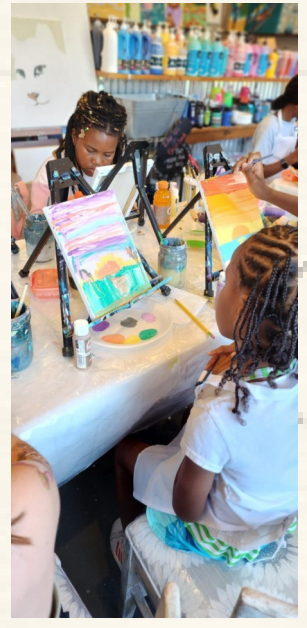

The YMCA kids from summer camp spent a week with us, creating a different art project each day, including learning how to face paint on their final day. They were given the gift of superhero capes from The Power Washing Man! Thank you for those gifts!
